When the School's presence was first established in the downtown core in 1994, I hosted an inaugural breakfast event on the 5th floor of 222 Bay Street to commemorate the historic occasion. In my opening remarks, which I entitled "The Learning Organization – Investing in the Future", I said that as a School "we have never lost sight of our mission to offer accessible and relevant programs to future and practicing managers". The Centre opened as a place designed to meet the future needs of the business community and it certainly has delivered. The opportunities the new site extended to the School to expand its ties into the business community, become more accessible, and expand our range of programs were significant and continue to be.

In 1996, your pledge was both unique and path breaking. The gift elevated the Centre to a new level of ability and capacity. Since that time, the Miles S. Nadal Management Centre, located at 222 Bay Street, has welcomed thousands of students, alumni, executives and leaders to take part in the Schulich learning experience, either at the Executive Education-level or at the Master's-level. As well, the Miles S. Nadal Management Centre has become home to a very distinguished and innovative collection of art and is the annual venue for a juried art exhibition, Art@Suite 500. Your donation of $1 million to establish the Miles S. Nadal Centre was a milestone moment in our School's history and will forever be a part of our legacy of excellence. In addition, your generous contributions to fund the expansion and refurbishing of the Centre, in 2007, have ensured that the Centre has remained leading-edge for our students.

Miles, your contribution to York, as well as other community organizations, has inspired other donors to come forward to support our School and realize the incredible impact of supporting higher education. Thank you for your support and collaboration.

Warm regards,
